7 free December posts

From the LoanSocial December 2026 drop. Each folder in this pack holds the finished images; the caption for each is below.

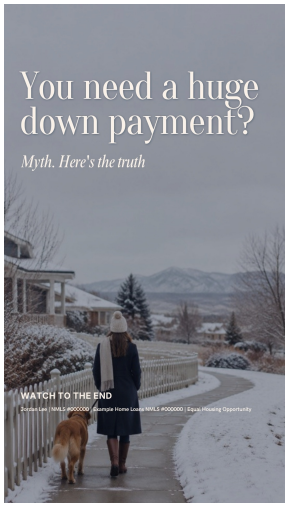

Before you post: the samples show a placeholder name, company and NMLS number. Replace them with yours (and swap {City}), then run the posts past your compliance team. LoanSocial is a marketing content service and does not give legal or compliance advice.

Buying in 2027?

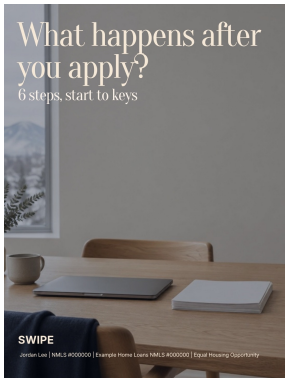

Buying in 2027? The work starts in December. Swipe for 5 things to sort out now: pull your free credit reports, hold off on new credit cards, gather two years of tax returns, keep large deposits documented, and talk to a loan officer before you tour homes. DM me READY and I'll send the checklist.

REEL COVER

You need a huge down payment?

Myth: you need a huge down payment to buy a home. Reality: several loan programs are built for buyers with smaller savings. Which one fits depends on your income, credit and where you're buying. Want to know your options in {City}? Send me a DM.

What happens after you apply?

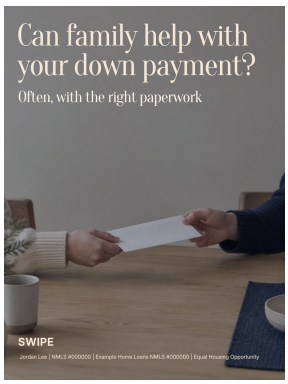

What actually happens after you apply for a mortgage? 1) Application and documents, 2) Processing, 3) Appraisal, 4) Underwriting, 5) Clear to close, 6) Closing day. Swipe for what you do at each step. Save this for when it's your turn.

SINGLE POST

Pre-qualified vs pre-approved

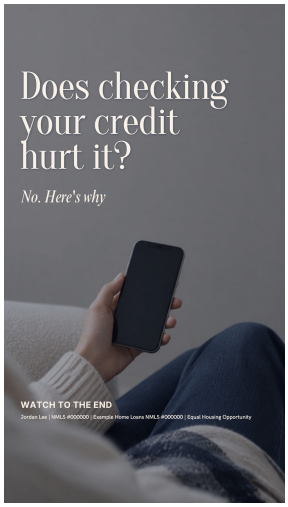

Pre-qualified vs pre-approved. Pre-qualified: a quick estimate from what you tell us. Pre-approved: we've checked your credit, income and assets. Sellers and agents take a pre-approval far more seriously. Ready to get one? DM me APPROVED.

Can family help with your down payment?

Can family help with your down payment? Often, yes, as a gift. Swipe for the paperwork it usually takes: a signed gift letter, proof of where the money came from, and a record of the transfer. Talk to me before the money moves.

REEL COVER

Does checking your credit hurt it?

Credit myth: checking your own credit score hurts it. False. Checking your own score is a soft check and doesn't affect it. Hard checks happen when you apply for credit. Know your score before you shop.
